When a young man asks a father for his daughter's hand in marriage, if the father is a wise one, he thinks of one thing equally as important as the young man's morals, social and business standing and intelligence. A young man who suffers from ill-health has no right to marry until his health is restored. To do so is to commit a crime against the human race. While all diseases may not be directly inherited, the constitutional tendency to acquire them is inherited. If a man is a consumptive, the chances are that his children will have weak, undersized lungs, and a predisposition to acquire the same disease.

The young man who suffers from bronchitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood or any disease of the air-passages which, if neglected leads up to consumption, may take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with almost absolute assurance of recovery. It cures 98 per cent of all cases when taken in time. It soothes and heals the delicate and sensitive tissues of the air-passages and lungs, checks the cough, facilitates expectoration, drives out all impurities and discharges germs from the tainted blood and builds new and healthy tissues.

Mr. John G. Born of 4202 Liberty Ave. Pittsburgh Pa. writes: "Some thirty months ago I said to my wife, 'I don't want to keep anything from you. I must tell you I am in the last stage of consumption.' In December 1896 I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I could then only speak in whispers. I have taken thirteen bottles and can say with truth I am greatly benefited. People are surprised to hear me speak. I can halloo and my voice has not been as good in eight years. My stomach was never in better condition. Formerly I could not eat without suffering very much immediately after, but now I can eat anything."

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

In the present Congress the Republicans have a majority of 65 in the House of Representatives; in the Congress elect the indications are that they will have a majority of 18. The next Senate will also be Republican and the party will have full sway at Washington. If Gage's policy of retreating the National currency and refunding the National debt, so as to make it payable in gold, is deemed advisable, it can be carried into effect without opposition as a party measure.

Opinions vary as to whether or not the interests of the masses of the people will be best subserved in the end, by having both Houses of Congress in line with the Administration. If mistakes are made and the people become dissatisfied the Republican party alone will have to shoulder the responsibility. If the greenbacks are retired and corporations are authorized by Act of Congress to contract or expand the currency at will and for their own profit, the people will know where to place the responsibility, and in 1900 will elect a President who will not be dominated by the gold syndicate and the various trusts that are being enriched at the expense of the common people. Commenting on the situation and the probability that the next Congress will have a Republican majority in both Houses, the Salt Lake Tribune says:

In some respects it is infinitely better that the President and Congress should be in harmony than that one or the other branch of Congress be under control of the party in opposition to the Administration. It permits a party to carry out its policies and makes it responsible for them; then the people know where to place blame or praise.

If one branch of Congress is in opposition to the Administration, it gives the Administration a chance to charge the blame for its failure upon such branch, and in a measure to fool the people. In that case the party in opposition has to take the blame, when it is utterly powerless to carry out its own policies.

On the other hand when the party in opposition to the Administration is in control of one or the other of the Houses of Congress, it can prevent vicious legislation and acts as a check upon the Administration if it is inclined to go to extremes. Prompted by patriotic motives, it is a safeguard, and a most valuable one.

With a Republican Congress to back him up, President McKinley will have it in his power to shape the destinies of the country at a most important period of its history. Everyone sees that the nation is on the brink of a Rubicon, so far as its foreign policy is concerned. Everything indicates that the influence of the United States is to be projected into oriental politics, and to-day the orient is the stage upon which the game of European politics is being played.

It seems now that the nation's destiny, not merely its affairs, is to be shaped in large measure, very large, indeed, by a Republican Administration, an Administration that will have a Republican Congress behind it. May that destiny be shaped wisely will be the prayer of every American.

WHEN THE PRESIDENT VOTES.

President McKinley voted on election day and every incident connected with the event has been telegraphed throughout the land. The Chicago News says there is something really touching about the manner in which the first man of the nation enters the voting booth—usually a barber shop or cigar stand—and casts his ballot like any farmer. It is typical of his return to the common body of the people for the high though simple purpose of performing the fundamental political duty of citizenship. Though he be president, yet he does not demand a specially constructed voting booth for his exclusive use, nor a ballot printed on Japanese paper. Though he holds 40,000 postoffices within the hollow of his hand, yet he condescends to turn over his ballot to an ordinary judge of election, just as other voters do, not requiring that the Supreme Court of the State assemble in special session to receive the precious document.

In fact, he requires nothing beyond what the common citizen has, save a special train of Pullman cars, right of way for several hundred miles, an escort of distinguished officials and a corps of correspondents to keep the world informed as to whether he votes with his hat on or off.

It is about all of Jeffersonian simplicity that remains to us and we ought to preserve it even if we have to provide a delegation with brass bands to carry the voting precinct up to Washington every year.

All the free coinage factions in Nevada will doubtless get together in the next campaign. They see the absurdity of letting a party that comprises less than one-third of the voters of the State elect several officers.

Mr. Russell did not carry a county in the State, but he has the satisfaction of making the election of a Republican Governor possible in a State that is not Republican.

The weather forecast for to-day is fair.

THE DOUBTFUL CANDIDATES.

Reports received last night from small precincts in Elko, Humboldt and Nye counties, show a gain of 89 votes for Sadler. There are yet about 800 votes in Nye and Lincoln to hear from, which are certain to give Sadler a plurality of at least 100. The chances are now greatly in favor of Sadler's election.

The contest for Controller has narrowed down to Davis and Turrill, with the probabilities strongly in favor of Davis, as the precincts yet to hear from are silver strongholds.

In the event of the election of Sadler and Davis, Ring for Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the only Republican elected on the State ticket. Nevada is yet true to the Silver cause, and the Silver party is dominant, notwithstanding the combined efforts of Hanna Republicans and Cleveland Democrats to defeat it.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

(Copyright, 1898, by W. T. Foster.)

St. Joseph, Mo., November 12.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from the 11th to the 15th, and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about the 16th, cross the west of the Rockies country by the close of the 17th, the great central valleys from 18th to 20th, and the Eastern States the 21st.

A warm wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about the 16th, the great central valleys the 19th, the Eastern States the 20th.

A cool wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about the 19th, the great central valleys the 21st, the Eastern States the 23d.

The temperature of the week ending 8 A. M., November 28th, will average above normal east of the Rockies and below west. Rainfall for the same period will be below normal in the Northern above in the southern and about normal in the west of the Rockies States.

A moderately high temperature wave has been expected to cross through the Northern States not far from the 12th followed by a cold dip. About the same time the temperature is expected to rise in, and a general high temperature wave to pass through, the Southern States.

Second Time Is Out.

The hotel stood on a corner of a main street and a comparatively unfrequented side street. One evening I overheard the little old black man talking very savagely with another around the corner on the side street, and among other things he said:

"Yes, sah, an ef I hits you dey woun't be but two licks struck. I'll hit you an you'll hit de ground."

"You done heah what I say."—Denver Post.

Her Liquid Voice.

"Your wife has such a liquid voice," said Mr. F. admiringly to Mr. T.

"Yes; that's a pretty good name for it," replied Mr. T.

Mr. F. looked up inquiringly, and Mr. T. added immediately: "Don't you understand? Why, it never dries up, you know."—London Fun.

Beaucault and His Hair.

Beaucault is a number of years ago, and the little Frenchman of the "Tittletat" "Tittletat" is expected in coloring his hair.

I was standing in front of the Union Square theater one day after rehearsal with the late Charles R. Thorne, Jr., and Joe Polk, writes Owen Fawcett, and we were arguing the question who should "buy," when along came Beaucault, as chipper as ever. Of course he must stop, ask all the news and have a chat, for he was a most entertaining man and well worth listening to. On his preparing to leave Polk said, "Mr. Beaucault, I do not wish to insult you, but I wish to congratulate you on one thing."

"Not a bit of it, my boy," said Beaucault. "What is it, Polk?"

"I see that you have given over dyeing your hair or what little hair you had, and you do not know how much better it makes you look."

"Yes," said Beaucault. "I have found out one thing, and that is in all the years I have been foolish enough to paint my hair I was only deceiving one person, and that one was myself. Good day, boys."—Detroit Free Press.

Spanish Cruelty.

The cruelty of the Spaniard, or rather his callousness, his recklessness of the lives of others, and even of his own, is a medieval and oriental survival, says Irving Babbitt in The Atlantic, and then, too, there underlies the Spanish temperament I know not what vein of primitive Iberian savagery. Miss d'Anjou relates that on a certain day of the year it was customary for court gallants to run along one of the main streets of Madrid, lashing furiously their bare shoulders, and when one of these penitents passed the lady of his choice among the spectators he bespattered her with his blood as a special mark of his favor.

Insensibility to the suffering of animals, though general in Spain, is not any greater so far as my own observation goes, than in the other Latin countries. Possibly medieval religion in so exalting man above other creatures, in refusing to recognize his relation to the rest of nature, tended to increase this lack of sympathy with brute creation. The Spanish peasant belabors his ass for the same reasons that Malebranche kicked his dog—because he has not learned to see in it a being organized to feel pain in the same way as himself.

A German Word Serpent.

A German correspondent comes to the rescue of his countrymen, concerning whom we expressed surprise that they should prefer to use a word of four syllables when another word expressing the same thing in 40 syllables was available. He sends us a copy of The Kolnische Volkszeitung, in which occurs a sentence of 607 words, occupying 69 lines of the newspaper.

This word serpent occurs in a legal judgment, and even the printers got to hate it after setting up about 450 words of it. So they put in a full stop, which, like a rifle bullet in the spine of a boa constrictor, killed the whole sentence. But it must really be nice to have newspapers in which you can begin to read a sentence at breakfast, continue it in the train and triumphantly reach the verb at office. —London Globe.

Slow Eating May Be Bad.

According to The Journal of Mental and Nervous Diseases, slow eating is as bad as fast eating. "The important point is not that we eat slowly or fast, but that when we do eat we chew with energy. Of course where the haste is due to some mental anxiety this may injuriously inhibit the secretions. Slow eating hogs a habit of simply mauling the food without really masticating it, while the hurried eater is inclined to swallow his food before proper mastication. Hence hurried eating is bad, but rapid mastication is advantageous. It concentrates our energies on the act in question, and hence more thoroughly accomplishes it. Moreover, energetic chewing stimulates the secretion of saliva in the most favorable manner. These various points are so commonly misunderstood, at least by the laity, that they demand our frequent attention."

The Gloved Pasha.

Mustapha Pasha Fehmi, prime minister of Egypt, decorated by Queen Victoria with the grand cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, is known throughout Egypt as the gloved pasha, owing to the fact that no one has ever seen his left hand bared since the day two and twenty years ago when, as one of the chamberlains of the late Khedive Ismail, he helped his colleague, Sabmi Pasha, to strangle the Egyptian minister of finance at the close of a supper party given by the wicked old Khedive on board his steam yacht, lying at anchor in the Nile at Cairo, just off the palace of Gezerah.

The Firecracker.

The firecracker so extensively used by Americans in celebrating Independence day is a Chinese invention and is supposed to have been used in China in prehistoric times as universally as it is now used in the Flowery Kingdom upon nearly all ceremonious occasions. Its original use is supposed to have been to frighten away evil spirits, and in some parts of the Celestial empire it is still regarded as an effective weapon against ghosts and hobgoblins.

Home Influences.

Each one of us is bound to make the little circle in which he lives better and happier; each of us is bound to see that out of that small circle the widest good may flow; each of us may have fixed in his mind the thought that out of a single household may flow influences which shall stimulate the whole commonwealth and the whole civilized world.—Dean Stanley.

Mr. Hardup.—How is it Jack, that you sport such fine clothes which I cannot afford, while I get as much salary as you do?

J. Common-sense.—Because I buy my groceries of Loofbourrow, the cash grocer, and save $4 a month on my bills, which amounts to $48 a year enough to buy two good suits of clothes with. "See." *nov1w1

THE UNIVERSITY WINS.

The Belmonts are Defeated by a Score of 24 to 0.

The Belmont football team arrived from California yesterday noon to contest honors with the Nevada State University boys. Upon their arrival they were received and taken to lunch. Earlier in the day the University band enlivened the streets about town with good music and the school colors were plentifully displayed.

Game was called at 2:45 P.M. with a large audience present. The Belmont boys secured the kick off. The game was exciting from beginning to end, both teams playing their best, the Nevada boys endeavoring to retrieve lost honors and the Belmonts determined to hold them. The University boys won by a score of 24 to a goose egg for the Californians. The latter took their defeat gracefully and the best of feeling prevailed. At the close of the game, the defeated team received royal entertainment from the Nevada boys and everything possible was done to make their visit to Reno a pleasant one. Last evening a reception and dance was given in honor of the California boys at the University gymnasium and upon the arrival of the west-bound they were escorted to the depot, and returned to their college.

Peculiar Voting.

Quite a number of ballots went into the boxes here upon which only two or three of the candidates were voted for and in several instances only one legislative candidate was marked, out of the twelve. In one ward, a blank ballot was deposited, the voter going through the entire form of voting, yet not casting a vote for a single candidate on the ticket. One man was telling a friend the candidates he had scratched. The friend replied, that if he had scratched the names the ballot would be thrown out. No, no, the man explained, I did not scratch the names, but those I wanted to vote against I scratched a cross opposite the name.

Judge Linn is considerably improved and hopes to be at his office to-morrow.

It is not believed that the charges against Edmund James of Carson will be pressed.

Thyes' Sunday lunch will be elaborate to-day and the eatables and drinkable will be sufficient to cheer the most despondent defeated candidate.

The Washoe Lunch Counter will serve an elegant dinner to-day. Turkey, chicken, roast pig, lamb and other delicacies. See their window display.

The Australian ballot is a wonderful manufacturer of independent voters. Out of nearly 900 votes cast in Carson last Tuesday only seven voted a straight ticket.

Joseph Moore, Vernal, Utah, a candidate for Sheriff, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart election day, as he feared he would be defeated for the office.

Every report received now is adding to Sadler's vote. The Republicans have given up the Governor and Controller fight and the Silver ticket will only lose one place, viz, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Ketchum, Idaho, Keystone tells about snow falling to the depth of an inch on Thursday morning, snow again on Friday, mentions the beautiful spring weather and Idaho skies of Idaho, all in the same item. Strange country that.

The Thanksgiving Ball.

Don't let the apathy attending the relapse after the excitement of election effect you so that you will forget the grand ball masquerade, to be given by the boys of Monumental Hose Company, No. 6, on Thanksgiving night. The boys are sparing neither pains nor expense to totally eclipse all former efforts to make the affair the event of the season and have made arrangements with a prominent costumer from San Francisco, who will bring the finest lot of costumes here that were ever brought to Reno. Take a look at the prizes displayed in R. Herz & Bro's. and W. G. Doane's show windows and see if they are not well worth striving for.
